

Tenacity

Stories from a Family of the Twentieth Century

Andreas Herdina

© 2026: Andreas Herdina

Cover design: Buchschmiede

Print and distribution on behalf of the author:
Buchschmiede von Dataforum Media GmbH
Julius-Raab-Straße 8
2203 Großebersdorf
Austria

www.buchschmiede.at – Folge deinem Buchgefühl!
Contact address according to the EU Product Safety Directive:
info@buchschmiede.at

ISBN:
978-3-99192-283-4 (Softcover)
978-3-99192-264-3 (Hardcover)
978-3-99192-266-7 (E-Book)

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, or otherwise, without the prior permission of both the copyright owner and the above printer/distributor of this book.

Cover photo:
My parents with their first two children in 1957;
This picture epitomises their tenacity and confidence in building their lives during the period of hardship after the Second World War, quite typical of their generation

*In loving memory of my parents
Elizabeth and Kurt*

Table of Contents

Prologue	15
Personalities in this book	17
The oldest generation	17
John and Phyllis Sellors' five daughters	17
The three children of Herbert and Maria	18
Other personalities	18
Chapter 1: Excursion to the origins of my ancestors and of other personalities in this book	20
Roots in Bohemia	20
A Tyrolean peasant family	20
Young Maria, my great-grandmother (possibly coming of age photo, 1898)	21
A family finding its way to Tirol via Saxony	21
A family having moved from North Wales to Liverpool	23
A workers' family from Derbyshire	25
A Jewish family from Bohemia	25
A Ladin migrant from South to North Tirol	26
Chapter 2: At the dawn of the Twentieth Century	27
A bright young boy on his path from factory work to theology student	27
A Welsh shipowner's daughter	28
A young boy from Saxony	30
Young Maria	30
Chapter 3: The First World War	32
John meets Phyllis	32
Two young men enlist and experience battle in France	33
Life as an Army Chaplain, and a deepening relationship with Phyllis	35
Dispatched to the British Salonika Force	36
John proposes to marry Phyllis	37
The war drags on	39
Aviator at the frontlines	40
Even without enemy contact, flying was a tricky business	42
Two young Austrians, keen on mountaineering	43

Chapter 4: The not so “Roaring Twenties”	46
Post-war weddings	46
Starting life as an Anglican clergyman and parson’s wife in Cape Town	47
Vicarage in Yorkshire	51
Back to civilian life	52
The two mountaineers start a family, too	53
Lifelong employment with the “Nordkettenbahn” cable-car company	58
Two family members emigrate to the United States	60
The next generation grows up and starts school	61
Chapter 5: Political turmoil in the 1930s	65
Vicar in the parishes of Shepley and Morley	65
From ship’s doctor to general practitioner	67
Quite a character within the staff of the Nordkettenbahn cable-car company	67
School children in politically charged Austria	69
No intention of returning	72
Five sisters attend school	73
Chapter 6: The “Anschluss” of Austria to the German Reich (1938)	76
Flight in the last minute	77
The Nazi takeover of the “Nordkettenbahn” cable-car company	77
The “Gipfelstürmer” mountaineering club during the Nazi period	81
Two teenagers subjected to the totalitarian regime of Hitler’s dictatorship	82
The “ancestry pass” (“Ahnepass”)	84
Discrimination and persecution	87
The fate of the Hungerburg Church under the Nazi regime	88
Chapter 7: The Second World War	90
Part I – 1939 to 1941	90
The rumblings of war come closer, helping refugees	90
War unleashed – life in Britain	92
War unleashed – life in Austria	95
First time lucky	99
Sharing anxiety with a Canadian cousin	100
Letters from America	101

A murderous regime.....	103
Final days in Viipuri (Vyborg).....	104
Part II – 1942 to 1944.....	105
Training as a nursery school teacher and finding her first job.....	105
A new parish for John.....	107
Diverted to Burma.....	107
Serving as “Luftwaffe” ground crew member on the Eastern Front.....	108
Second time lucky, aircraft maintenance in Ukraine, reprisals in Moldova, first battles.....	109
A soldier in Rommel’s “Afrika Korps”.....	114
Prisoner-of-war in New York and lumberjacking in Tennessee.....	116
Conscientious objector, bomb disposer.....	118
In the meantime, back in Austria.....	118
Transfer to Normandy.....	119
Third time lucky, D-Day.....	120
Retreating out of France.....	122
Into the combat zones near the German frontier.....	123
A friendship forged in wartime.....	124
Military service for Herbert, too.....	125
Victim of Nazi persecution.....	126
A war-time encounter changes life for a young woman.....	127
Part III – 1945.....	128
Herbert builds more cable cars as a conscript into the German Army.....	128
Wounded; fourth time lucky.....	129
Fifth time lucky.....	130
Tyrolean teenagers as Hitler’s final reserve.....	131
Civilians had to go into hiding too.....	132
Legal advisor to the British forces in Belgium.....	132
Herbert’s war ends in Tirol.....	132
The end of the war in Britain.....	134
Chapter 8: Peace at last.....	135
Prisoner-of-war.....	135
Allied occupation of Tirol.....	140

Denazification	141
Europe in ashes, providing humanitarian aid	143
Finding a new life in Switzerland	144
A life shattered by the Nazis	145
A young lady finds her dream job and travels to the Continent	145
A student with meagre means	148
The first of the five daughters to marry	151
A mountain hike in the Ötztal Alps	153
Chapter 9: A new beginning in the 1950s	157
A new parish in Wiltshire	157
One sister went to South Africa	157
Another sister went to Malaya	158
A British woman and an Austrian man get engaged six years after the war	161
The newly-weds' life in Vienna	168
Sports and teaching	172
The Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II	172
Keeping a family spread around, together	173
Building a house and starting a family in Innsbruck	173
The family grows	179
Life stabilised for other family members, too	180
My earliest memories	183
Active retirement in Sussex	185
Finally, a secure job to support a growing family	187
The last of five sisters to marry	193
Other families expanded, too	195
A Finnish summer	196
My memories of my great-grandmother Maria	197
My Austrian grandfather's early death	198
Chapter 10: The 1960s – a period of hard work and societal change	201
New tasks for Kurt	201
Headmistress in Kuala Lumpur	203
Transgenerational wartime trauma	207

My primary school years.....	208
Our home evolved, too.....	213
Meeting our grandparents in Genoa	214
Further events in Innsbruck.....	216
A new parish for Anna and Peter.....	218
Summer holidays in England.....	220
Back home in Innsbruck.....	227
Tragedies.....	228
Reminders of the war.....	229
The Olympic Winter Games 1964.....	230
A better life for our family members in Switzerland.....	230
A distant family relationship.....	231
A new vocation in Britain	232
A love of sports	232
My high school (secondary school) years.....	233
Television brings international politics to our household.....	236
Adolescence.....	237
A pen-pal in France	238
The turbulent 1968 movement - living in a period of change.....	238
Another transformer station project for Kurt.....	243
Chapter 11: Troubled times – the struggle for freedom and autonomy in South Tirol.....	245
Chapter 12: Growing of age in the analogue world.....	253
The winds of change belatedly come to Austria	253
Practicing my French on an Atlantic island.....	254
My last years at high school	254
The transformer station in Haiming takes shape.....	258
The Bexhill Hospital Car Service	259
Diana returns to England.....	260
Gwyneth moves closer to London.....	261
Peter and Anna move once again.....	261
John and his brother James	262
Adapting to life without home-bound children.....	262

Military service	265
Travelling by Interrail	267
Starting my law studies	269
A historic shift in the perception of a half-Brit	270
Continued links with South Africa	271
Sad news from England	271
Joining the Hungerburg voluntary fire brigade	272
My first travel by airplane, a tour of Israel	276
Catching the “sailing bug”	278
Tennis for Elizabeth, building for Kurt	279
Great travellers – either in Europe or overseas	280
Meanwhile in Switzerland	280
A man with a role in the Cold War	281
Completing my law studies	283
Chapter 13: A lawyer and diplomat	287
First steps as a young lawyer, court trainee	287
Attaining an officer’s rank in the voluntary fire brigade	291
More reserve duties with the Austrian Army	293
More sailing	295
Taking the Bar Exam	297
Travels	298
A lawyer in my own right, a political candidate, and a married man	298
Heading the Tyrolean section of the Austrian-Israeli Society	302
Leaving the legal profession	302
Trainee at the Austrian Foreign Ministry	305
Business and private trips to Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Poland, and Israel	308
An active retiree	311
Attaché at the feet of the Karakorum	313
Back in Vienna, waiting for my first posting	323
Cherry blossoms in a booming land	325
Geneva, assigned to Austria’s mission to the United Nations	336
Sailing	341

The world-wide traveller.....	342
Widowed.....	346
News from other family members.....	348
A fascinating new job ahead.....	349
Chapter 14: Implementing the Dayton Peace Agreement	351
Starting work at the Office of the High Representative.....	351
The living and the dead: the scars of “ethnic cleansing”.....	355
Contacts with IFOR, and the delivery of my private Volvo.....	361
Daily life in Sarajevo.....	364
Return and reconstruction.....	366
Taking three hits	371
Practical steps to help overcome post-war divides.....	374
The Return and Reconstruction Task Force (RRTF).....	376
A career-move to Brussels?.....	378
In the “Heart of Darkness” – “Sleeping with the Enemy”	379
Back in Sarajevo, and preparing for a new assignment.....	395
Working with the military.....	395
Leaving Bosnia and Herzegovina after a life-changing experience.....	399
Chapter 15: Reuniting Europe.....	402
Life in the EU fast lane.....	402
Helping Lithuania prepare for EU accession	403
Private matters in and out of Brussels.....	407
Dealing with nuclear safety in the EU accession countries.....	408
The “Melk Process”	411
A trip to Mali, seeing my first Euro notes in Austria, changing to an H-boat.....	415
Handling the fallout from legacy decrees of the Second World War	418
Hiking in Mauritania and a trip to Moscow.....	421
The EU Accession Treaty and a last-minute minor hitch.....	425
Overseeing the implementation of Lithuania’s EU Accession Treaty.....	426
Impressions of Finland.....	428
Visiting my parents.....	429
Meanwhile in Switzerland	432

Forging the European Neighbourhood Policy (ENP)	432
To Mauretania, once again	436
Husband to a Finnish diplomat	437
Affected by the Asian tsunami, skiing and sailing	437
More work on the ENP	438
Leaving EU external policy with a sense of achievement	440
Heading North	443
Chapter 16: Establishing an EU Agency in Helsinki from scratch	444
New job, new home	444
A new sailboat for the Finnish Archipelago	445
Work and life in Finland	447
Starting a seven year long “shuttling marriage”, trips to Türkiye	450
Work and free time back in Finland	452
Elizabeth and Kurt still going strong; Diana holds court	454
Kurt and Elizabeth suffer a car accident	456
Preparing the Agency for Brexit	457
Harassment at the work place, a warning	461
India, the new destination for the “shuttling spouse”	461
2017 – A year of joy and sorrow	463
Kurt, now a widower	465
Looking back at a decade working at ECHA	466
Chapter 17: Active retirement, a tumbling world order, visiting Austria	467
“Active Senior” - Brexit	467
The colours and bustle of India	467
The generations pass the baton	476
House spouse, and the Covid-19 crisis	479
Rigged elections in Belarus	480
Adapting to the COVID pandemic	481
More sailing in Cap Verde	483
Russia’s full-scale invasion of Ukraine, the shock of 24 February 2022	484
Crossing the Atlantic and sailing at the “Höga Kusten” in Sweden	487
The Finnish language	490

A “trailing spouse”, Vienna.....	491
The shock of 7 October 2023.....	492
Observing Austria from closer up.....	494
The burden of history.....	497
People and politics.....	499
The disruptive end of the post-war world and European order.....	504
Family ties and cultural highlights.....	507
Chapter 18: Finding our compass in a world of turmoil	509
The lost world order.....	509
A new, darker reality.....	511
Our European democracies under hybrid attack.....	511
The imperative of a strong mindset.....	512
A strong European Union in a new geopolitical environment.....	513
Realism as a starting point	513
Social cohesion in an open society.....	514
Gender cohesion.....	515
Ethics in the times of Artificial Intelligence.....	516
Humanism and the values enshrined in the Treaty on the European Union.....	517
Keeping an open mind, accepting realities.....	518
Epilogue.....	520
Sources and photo credits	522
Acknowledgements	523

Prologue

Whenever, over the years, I told the stories of my family to friends, and even when I did so to strangers, many urged me to write them down. The narrative of this book takes you through the history of the Twentieth Century, seen through the personal experiences of members of my family. It tells their stories.

The chapters of the book reach beyond the one hundred years of the Twentieth Century. The first chapter provides a sense of family background prior to 1900. The final chapters stretch into the current century, up until 2025, when the international order of the Twentieth Century, established in the aftermath and in response to the Second World War, gave way to new, turbulent times.

My family background is Austrian, English, German, Welsh, and looking back further, also Czech. My grandparents confessed to the Anglican, Calvinist (Welsh) Congregationalist, Lutheran, and Roman-Catholic denominations of the Christian faith. Most family members lived in Britain or in the Austrian Tirol. Some spent parts of their lives in more far-flung places such as Malaysia and South Africa. They experienced events of our recent European history from different perspectives.

I tell the story only of those, whom I knew personally, not of preceding generations, and neither of those with extraordinary profiles, such as the Welsh sheep farmer in Patagonia or the Japanese foster daughter brought into the family by a lighthouse keeper in the Chinese Sea, nor of my more distant relatives in Canada. I mention persons of my own generation only incidentally to the extent that the narrative requires.

I was born in 1953, merely eight years after the Second World War ended. Then, my town of origin Innsbruck was still under Allied (French) occupation. I spent nearly five decades of my life in the Twentieth Century, witnessing key political changes between the 1960s and 1990s. During my youth, my mixed family and rather austere upbringing may have set me aside from some of my peers, but the social and political environment that I describe, was the same for us all. My profession provided me with personal insights into more recent history, from post-war Bosnia and Herzegovina to EU Enlargement and Brexit. The book's narrative evolves from stories of my ancestors to some of my own. My life story took me from Innsbruck to Vienna, Islamabad, Tokyo, Geneva, Sarajevo, Brussels and Helsinki, where I am resident since late 2008.

If you were to ask me about my own identity, then I most likely identify as European as well as a Tyrolean with strong links to Austria and Finland, and gradually lessening links to the United Kingdom.

In addition to my own family members, I mention my parents-in-law as well as my first boss from when I was a young lawyer, and a neighbour, who introduced me to sailing as a hobby.

Wherever I thought it to be appropriate for the benefit of readers, I added an explanation of the historical context, particularly regarding events in Austria. These are, of course, not the remarks of a professional historian, but summarise my own best knowledge and understanding of events, without claiming academic accuracy. Where I have erred, I stand to be corrected.

In spite of my expectations in that regard, I was still surprised by the impact of the Nazi regime from 1938 to 1945 on the lives of the Austrians mentioned in the book. Regarding my British relatives, I was similarly surprised, to what extent the British colonial lifestyle continued well into the 1960s and 1970s.

I have endeavoured to establish facts and to reflect my findings as accurately as possible. I have immensely benefited from documents, letters and photos that my parents collected and left in large numbers. Some are included as illustrations. I used italics to express assumptions, wherever the documentation left doubts. My description of the historic background as well as some side stories appear in italics, too.

With regard to geographical names, I have chosen to write “Tirol” instead of “Tyrol” to be closer to the official name of the province of my birth than to the anglicised touristic name. Yet, I use “Tyrolean” as an adjective. I mention place names in South Tirol in both their German and Italian versions (i.e., Bozen / Bolzano), as readers may only find the Italian names on a map, and as both languages have official status in the province. Place names in Bohemia, the land of a number of ancestors mentioned in this book, appear in German, as used in their lifetime, with the Czech names added in brackets.

I entitled this book “Tenacity”, as this characteristic is a defining attribute of the generations described in this book. Those, who pulled up stumps in the Nineteenth Century to leave Wales or Bohemia to move to England or Austria proved determination in starting a new life. My grandfather and great-uncles as well as my father had to muster personal strength as soldiers during the two world wars. My grandmother Phyllis and my mother Elizabeth showed grit, when they exchanged comfort for austerity as a chaplain’s wife or to clear a forest to build a house with little means in the post-war era. Their daily lives were impacted by food rationing and mail censorship into the early 1950s. Through hard work that separated him from his family for most of his career, my father provided a foundation for my upbringing and that of my brothers. That my mother played competitive tennis until the age of 90 and my father remained remarkably active until his last day, also inspired me to choose this book’s title. Finally, as to myself, I needed to pluck up a good measure of self-discipline and determination to handle my own professional and personal challenges, most of all during my deployment to post-war Bosnia and Herzegovina only a few months after the Dayton Peace Agreement.

The last chapter and the Epilogue reflect my thoughts on current affairs, as I draw conclusions from the stories of each personality in this book. These reinforce my beliefs that I pinned to my Twitter (now X) handle in January 2021:

“Decency, truthfulness, accountability, factual discourse, respect for human dignity, rule-of-law, civilised dialogue, social cohesion, sound economic policies are essentials of our liberal democracies; a strong European Union is our home in a challenging world. For us to uphold.”

I hope that you enjoy these stories or, with regard to the more sombre accounts, gain insights into the historical circumstances, in which they occurred.

Finally, my intention in writing this book was not only to document a period, to which readers of my generation can relate. I also want to point out to younger readers that previous generations also had to face the legacies that their elders had left. They then tackled the challenges of their time.

I hope that this book will find your interest.

Helsinki, January 2026

Personalities in this book

The oldest generation

Maria Köchler née Schönfels, born 26 February 1877 in Vomp, Tirol, Austria, my great-grandmother, held various jobs (e.g., ticket controller in a cinema), died 3 June 1966.

John Sellors, born 5 October 1886 in Matlock, Derbyshire, England, my maternal grandfather, Anglican clergyman, parish priest of various parishes in England and initially in Cape Town, South Africa, died 1983¹.

Phyllis Sellors née Roberts, born 26 January 1891 in Hoylake on the Wirral south of Liverpool, Cheshire, England, my maternal grandmother, Latin teacher and clergyman's wife, died 5 February 1973.

Sidney Lawrence, born 17 October 1895, my grandmother Phyllis' brother-in-law, having married her sister Elspeth (Betty), employee of an insurance company, joint manager with Betty of a small hotel, choir singer, died 11 June 1974.

Betty (Elspeth) Roberts (later Lawrence), born 1 December 1895 in Hoylake, Cheshire, England, teacher, co-owner of a small hotel, died 26 July 1994.

Eric Roberts, born 9 August 1897, my grandmother Phyllis' youngest sibling and only brother, from Hoylake, general practitioner and later gentleman farmer raising Dartmoor ponies, died 2 June 1994.

Herbert Herdina (originally Hrdina), born 22 November 1901 in Lockwitz, Saxony, Germany, my paternal grandfather, mountaineer, deputy managing director of the Nordkettenbahn cable car company in Innsbruck, died 13 October 1960.

Maria Herdina née Köchler, born 6 January 1903 in Vomp, Tirol, Austria, my paternal grandmother, mountaineer, housewife, died 20 November 1991.

John Herding (originally Johannes Herdina), born 24 April 1903 in Lockwitz, Saxony, Germany, younger brother of my grandfather Herbert Herdina, emigrated to the United States in 1928, graphic designer, settled in San Francisco, died 4 February 1976.

Erich Herdina, born on 4 February 1911 in Lockwitz, Saxony, Germany, emigrated to the United States with his older brother Johannes in 1928, but returned in 1932, electrician, died on 14 March 1974.

John and Phyllis Sellors' five daughters

Christine Sellors, born 24 May 1920 in Cape Town, South Africa, worked in catering logistics in Britain and South Africa, volunteer hospital car driver, died 24 December 1986.

¹ Unfortunately, I could not establish the exact date of his death.

Diana Sellors, born 14 February 1922 in Cape Town, South Africa, teacher and later headmistress at schools in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, subsequently teacher in Britain, celebrated her 103rd birthday in February 2025.

Elizabeth Sellors (later Herdina), born 9 October 1923 in Cape Town, South Africa, my mother, nursery school teacher and housewife, moved to live in Austria in 1953, died 7 April 2017.

Anna Sellors (later Tambling), born 9 December 1925 in Cape Town, South Africa, teacher, vicar's wife, bell ringer, died 12 May 2019.

Gwyneth Sellors (later Mehew), born 21 September 1928 in White Colne, Essex, England, teacher, died in January 1982.

The three children of Herbert and Maria

Kurt Herdina, born 20 June 1923 in Innsbruck, Austria, my father, drafted into the German "Luftwaffe" and paratroopers ("Fallschirmjäger") during the Second World War, student of architecture, building supervisor, died 24 June 2020.

Jolanda Herdina (later Stüssi), born 4 March 1925, housemaid, creator of naïve art, moved to live in Switzerland in 1948, died 2 October 2014.

Monika Herdina (later Aste), born 23 June 1945, office assistant, housewife, owner of a picture framing business, died 8 March 2000.

Other personalities

Karl Köchler (full name Karl Albert Thaddäus), brother of my grandmother Maria, born 1 April 1913 in Hötting, Innsbruck, drafted into the German Army's "Afrika Korps", tax advisor, died 16 November 2003.

Grete Bermann, my first mother-in-law, born 21 March 1921 in Innsbruck, Austria, accountant, died 4 July 2013.

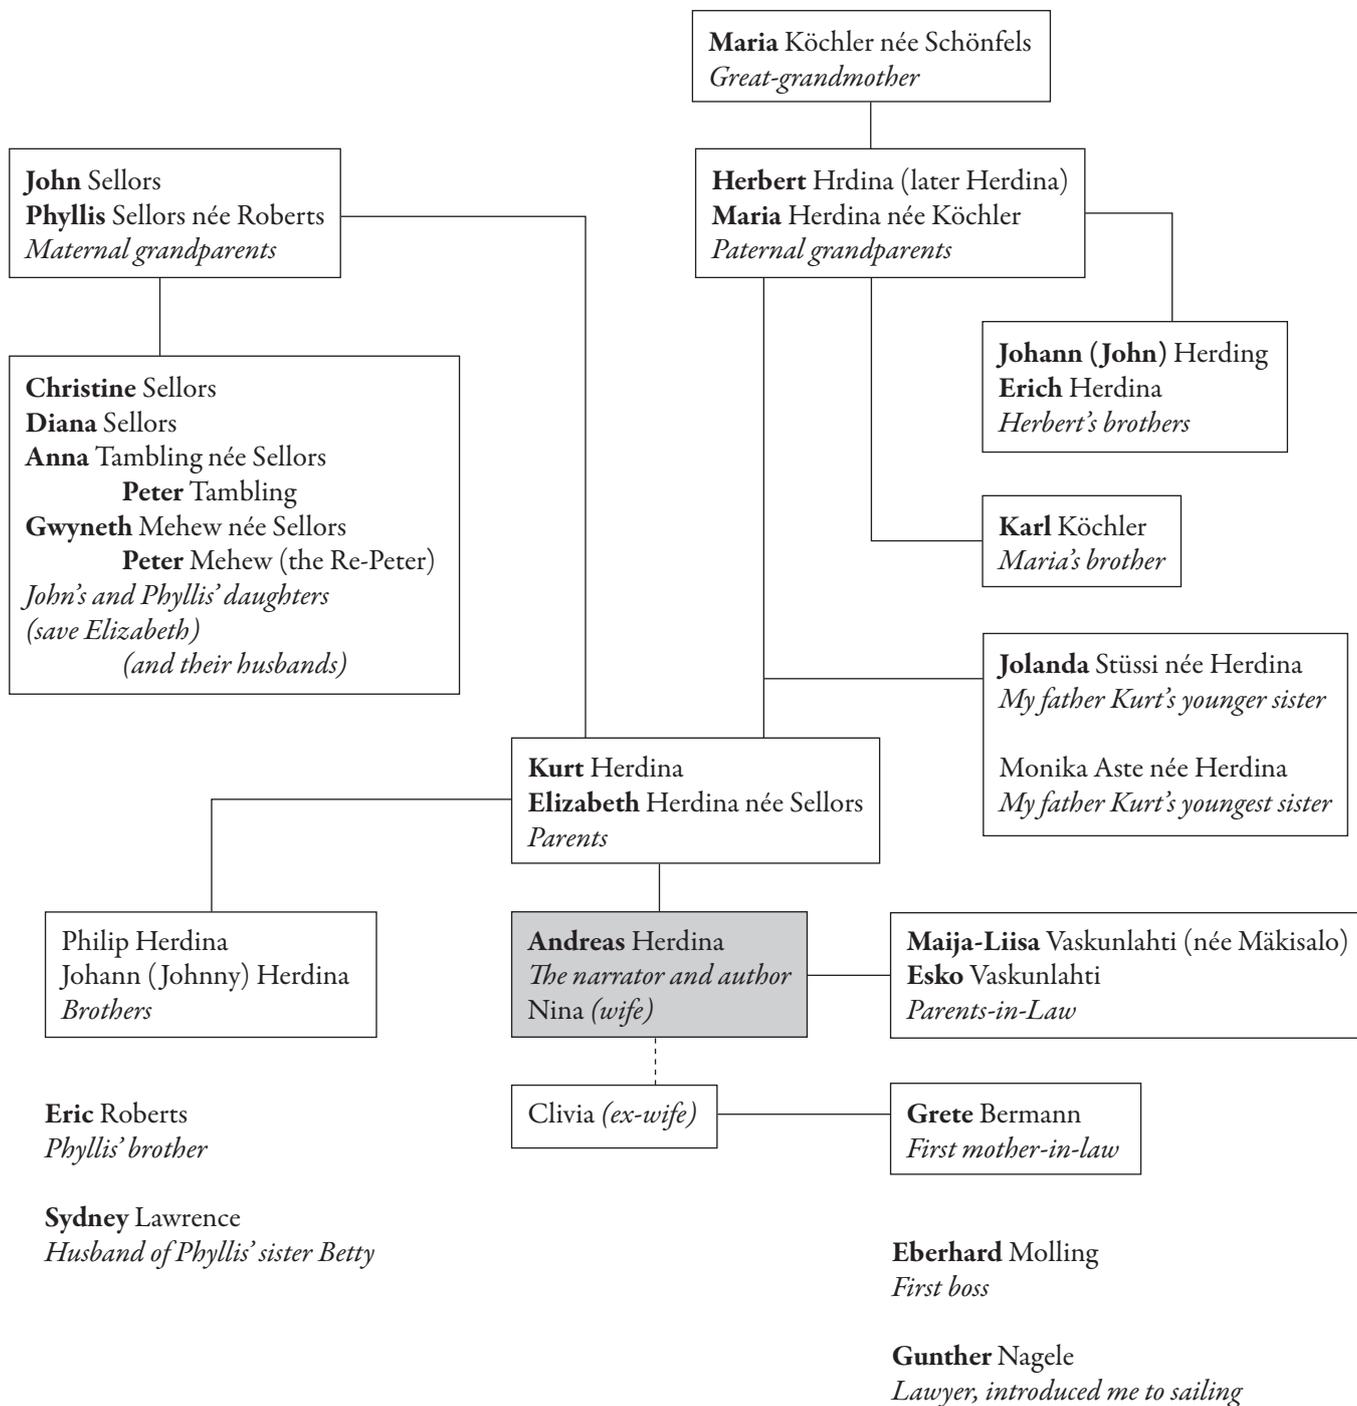

Eberhard Molling, my first boss, born 10 December 1927, lawyer, passionate hunter, Tyrolean patriot, died 2 November 1992.

Gunther Nagele, introduced me to sailing, born 6 September 1928, lawyer, died 17 June 2017.

Maija-Liisa Mäkisalo (later Vaskunlahti), mother-in-law, born 14 January 1933 in Savonlinna, South Savo district in south-eastern Finland, primary school principal, died 15 April 2025.

Esko Vaskunlahti, father-in-law, born 10 July 1930 in Kokemäki, Satakunta district in western Finland, entrepreneur and owner of a driving-school, died 28 August 2013.

Illustration of relations between persons mentioned above
(Corresponding to their appearance throughout the book, the names of the main characters of the family stories are spelt out in bold)

Chapter 1: Excursion to the origins of my ancestors and of other personalities in this book

Roots in Bohemia

My Austrian great-grandmother Maria came from the Schönfels family, which hailed from Bohemia.

Born on 26 February 1877, Maria was the first child of Josef Schönfels and his wife Maria with the recognisably Tyrolean maiden name Amhof. They had married on 16 May 1876. Although Maria Amhof's father was August von Schaffenstein from Kaltern in South Tyrol (now also known as Caldaro in the Italian Province of Alto Adige), she bore the surname of her mother Theresia Amhof, possibly due to the probably aristocratic August having sired her out of wedlock.

Her father Josef Schönfels' date of birth is unknown, yet his baptism in the Roman-Catholic church of Sonnenberg (now Vysluni in the Czech Republic) on 11 March 1848 is documented. He was an illegitimate child of Karolina Schönfels, who again had been the illegitimate child of Josefa Schönfels, all of Komotau (Chomotov). Interestingly, after having given birth to Karolina, Josefa acquired the surname of Herdina through a later marriage, which coincidentally is the surname of my German-born Austrian grandfather.

A Tyrolean peasant family

Maria Schönfels married into the Köchler family of small-holding farmers from the village of Vomp, some 40 kilometres east of the Tyrolean capital city Innsbruck, and near the old silver mining town of Schwaz. Parts of the family still farm there to this very day, raising a few cows and tending to some fields. They bear the traditional estate name "upper Gallen"².

On 21 August 1899, Maria, who then also lived in Vomp and was 22 years of age, married Franz Xaver Köchler, a man of 30 years, born on 20 October 1869 to the farmer Josef Köchler (born 1834) and his wife Maria née Huber.

I never got to know Maria's husband Franz. In Tirol, traditionally and by law, only the oldest son of the family inherited the farm, and the other siblings then needed to find employment elsewhere. Franz moved to Innsbruck and became a shop assistant (described in his death certificate by the unusual definition "Geschäftsdienner" – "shop servant")³. He died on 13 September 1954, nine months after I was born, at the age of 85. My great-grandmother Maria died in 1966, nearly 90 years old, when I was twelve.

I only know of Maria that she once worked as a ticket maiden in one of the Innsbruck cinemas.

As if this was not in itself complicated enough, this ancestry includes a multitude of Marias, apart from the various Josefs:

- Maria Köchler, the wife of Josef Köchler and mother of Franz Xaver (4 generations above me)
- Maria Schönfels, the wife of Josef Schönfels (4 generations above me)

² "Bauer zum oberen Gallen".

³ Another document gives him as tenant of an enterprise ("Wirtschaftspächter").